The many friends here of Rev. Leo E. Rife, Clarion, Iowa, will be pleased to know that he has accepted a call to the Norris Square United Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, and will be located in his new charge sometime after the middle of March. The congregation numbers over 700 members and is one of the strongest in the East. The salary being $2500 per annum. It is a remarkable co-incident that Rev. Rife's predecessor at Norris Square was a former Cedarvillian, Rev. Alvin Orr, who recently located in Pittsburg. Both young men were educated in Cedarville college where Rev. Orr graduated while Rev. Rife graduated from Monmouth. Rev. Rife a few years ago took up a mission charge in Oklahoma City and then was called to Clarion, Iowa, where his ministry has been profitable to the congregation. The Philadelphia call marks a high esteem for Rev. Rife's capabilities and energetic efforts in the pastorate.

MONEY FROM TURKEYS.

One Woman's Great Success With Flock of Bourbon Reds.

"For a number of years I have been interested in raising turkeys," says a woman writer in Farm and Fireside. "I began operations on a small scale. Finding it a very profitable experiment and a pleasant pastime, I have enlarged the number of my breeding stock each year. Now I get orders from almost every state in the Union.

"I keep only the Bourbon Reds, and I consider them far ahead of any other kind. As to size, they run well up to the Bronze. They are hardy and healthy and are very gentle and easy to manage.

"Until the turkeys are about a month or two old I yard the busy mother with her brood. After that I let them have the run of the pasture through the daytime, bringing them home each evening to roost. They soon become accustomed to coming home at evening, at which time we give them a good feed of small grain, such as wheat, Ruffe corn or millet, with all the clabber cheese that I have to spare.

"My roosting house opens to the south, with a wire front. I roost them there until they are large enough to fly upon a large outdoors frame. I like to get them to roosting outdoors as early as possible, for the outdoor life is the natural life of the turkey. Plenty of clear fresh water is necessary to the turkey at all times. After the poult has had their fill the surplus water is emptied and the pans cleaned for the next watering time.

"Since beginning to keep Bourbon Reds, I have had no serious trouble with disease. I know nothing of black head from experience. The warding off of disease is easier than the curing of it. I do this by putting a little crude carbolic acid in the drinking water once a week. A large percentage of turkeys that die are from two to three weeks old. They need at that age careful handling, good nourishing food and exercise. As soon as they seem strong enough I turn them out to rustle for themselves, when they can get bugs and worms to eat.

"My nesting house is a long shed with a wire front. My turkeys all lay in there, so I have no trouble in gathering the eggs.

"I try to have early hatching, so that by the 1st of November I begin supplying them and continue so long as my supply lasts. Each year the number of orders have exceeded the supply."

HOW TO MAKE THE FARM PAY.

Don't think the modern way—that's what makes farm business pay. Paint the barn and mend the fence, use common, plain horse sense changing crops, conserving soil, getting sure reward for toll, helping nature make her yield from the fresh and rested fields.

Mulch the Strawberry Bed. A strawberry shortcake, evenly ripened, is a splendid stock food for family use and most people prefer it to the ordinary doctor stuff as a matter of taste. This is mentioned now so you will remember to mulch the strawberry bed this fall.

GENERAL FARM NOTES.

Winter plowing seems to be gaining in favor.

Now that the general field work is over keep the manure spreader in daily use.

Barnyard manure, cottonseed meal and acid phosphates are excellent fertilizers for Irish potatoes.

This is a good time to cover the bare spots in the pasture with manure, to be seeded early next spring.

Since alfalfa is a permanent crop, the ground should be prepared with more care than ordinarily, making it level, free from stones or other encumbrances.

Clover is rich in nitrogen, and in homogeneous soils it develops tubercles, which attract nitrogen from the air, where it is stored in inexhaustible quantities.

In large pastures the animals roam from one especially attractive patch of grass to another, traveling all over the field, and tramping down more than they can eat.
